Rev. Walter Hoye With Laura Ingraham

Laura Ingraham hosted Rev. Walter Hoye on his sentencing for the crime of holding a sign outside an abortion clinic reading "Jesus loves you and your baby."

Hoye was charged for getting too close to an abortion clinic with his sign. He greeted people going in the clinic with literature and his sign - and the police were called and he was arrested for being within eight feet of a woman entering the clinic.

Hoye is looking to challenge the constitutionality of the law that led to his arrest. He said that the Reverends Jesse Jackson and Al Sharpton haven't advocated for him nor the ACLU. He said that the maximum he could face is two years in prison and several thousand dollars in fines.

He was doing nothing wrong and should not be in prison for 2 years plus a $4000.00 fine. The only thing he was doing is trying to let these woman know what they are about to do and remind them that there is a living person they are carrying not just some blob.plus he was just being friendly to by greeting woman and offering his help.
